NATIONAL STATUTES OF CHRISTIAN LIFE COMMUNITY AUSTRALIA

PART ONE:- OUR IDENTITY

1. NAME

The World Christian Life Community (CLCW) is a public world association of the faithful in accordance with Papal law according to the Code of Canon Law related to public associations of the faithful (CCL V, chapter I and II, code 312–319) and is the continuation of the Marian Sodality (Congregations) officially approved by the apostolic bull, Omnipotentis Dei, of December 5, 1584.

The basic documents that describe the charism, spirituality and the way of life of the CLCW are the General Principles (GPs) and General Norms (GNs) approved by the General Assembly of the CLCW on September 7th 1990 and confirmed by the Holy See on December 3rd 1990. The General Norms were amended by the General Assembly on July 29th 1998.

Christian Life Community Australia (CLCA) is recognised and established as a National Community as part of the CLCW.

These statutes are made according to the requirements of GN 35.

CLCA is incorporated according to the Victorian Associations Incorporation Act 1981. Inc Reg No A0029889G(Vic).

3. MEMBERSHIP

There is a variety of ways in which a person can become a member of CLCW (see GN 1). However they are admitted, "the new members must be helped by the community to assimilate the CLC way of life, and to decide whether a call, an ability and a willingness to live it are present, and to become identified with the wider Christian Life Community" (GN 2).

3.1 Enquirer

The National CLCA Document, "Process for Responding to CLC Enquirers", approved at the NEXCO meeting of December 2010, provides some guidelines for the steps to follow when an enquiry is received about CLCA. Central to these guidelines is the suggestion that the person be engaged in dialogue and that a group experience of CLC be offered if this is sought.

3.2 Period of Reception/Welcome – Pre-CLCA member

This is the CLC induction period, referred to as "Pre-CLC".

- a) The Enquirer is invited to attend six meetings in a small group to "Come and See" the CLC experience. The first six meetings of "To Share in the Life of Christ" by Laurence L. Gooley SJ are recommended. At the end of this experience, the Pre-CLCA member has an opportunity to discern if CLC is for them.
- b) If it is not possible for the Enquirer to be part of a "Come and See" group, it may be suggested that the Enquirer join an existing group for about twelve meetings or six months using material from "To Share in the Life of Christ" by Laurence L. Gooley SJ as part of an existing CLCA group. Alternatively other material may be used. Suggestions for content that is appropriate to this induction stage can be found in "The Process of Growth in CLC: Guidelines for Formation October 2009 (Table 2: A Journey For CLC Formation– Its Stages)".
- c) The induction period may continue for several months. At the end of this period, an Evaluation in the form of prayerful reflection takes place. The person decides if they wish to continue on the CLC journey or that it is not for them.
- d) Induction is completed when the individual becomes registered as a member of CLCA. This involves acceptance of the GPs which is a prerequisite for membership in CLC on any level.

3.3 CLC Membership

If the person decides to become a member of CLC, discussion will take place to choose the CLC group most appropriate to their needs. The person will be invited to complete and submit a New Membership Form. There is a membership fee listed on this form and each is asked to contribute according to their means. Upon acceptance of the application by NEXCO the person becomes a Registered Member of CLCA. Following this, the person receives a membership kit with basic CLC materials and is welcomed into the Christian Life Community family.

Unless otherwise determined by the National Assembly, the amount of any membership fee shall be determined by NEXCO from time to time

The Secretary shall keep a register of the names and addresses of all members. The Secretary may engage the Administration Manager to assist. Members shall advise the Secretary of any changes of address and/or contact details. Each Regional EXCO shall annually provide updated data for the register to the Secretary/Administration Manager.

A registered member may resign upon written notice addressed to the Secretary who shall record in the register of members the name of the resigning member and the date upon which the membership ceased.

If an application for membership is refused by NEXCO, the person shall have the right to have the application referred to the next National Assembly for determination.

The National Statutes of CLC shall not be altered unless by resolution adopted by a majority of the voting members present at a National Assembly or an Extraordinary National Assembly.

BACKGROUND TO NATIONAL STATUTES

General Norm 35 states the following:

Each national community of the World Christian Life Community establishes its own statutes in conformity with the General Principles and General Norms and the stage of development of the national community.

Such statutes would ordinarily deal with:

- a) Membership in and admission to the national community.
- b) Goals and means of the national community.
- c) Relationship with the hierarchy.
- d) Structures for choosing leaders and for making decisions.
- e) Procedure for selecting delegates to the World General Assembly.
- f) Any other matters essential to ordering the life, unity, growth and mission of the national community.

The statutes of national communities are to be confirmed by the Executive Council of the World Community.

History of These Statutes

In 1986 the first Australian National Assembly was held and those present discerned that we wished to move to become a National CLC community. One of the first things that was established was an Interim NEXCO. Over time this body was accepted as having a permanent role and a Role Statement was developed through dialogue with the State Guiding Communities (the name at the time for the Leadership teams in each State). The most recent version of this Role Statement was agreed in 1996 and it has not been changed since.

In 1994 CLC in Australia became a legal entity under Victorian law and a Constitution was drawn up.

In 1999 the NEXCO of that time, aware that we did not have in place any National Statutes, invited Kay Hooper to begin the process of developing them. As a result of this undertaking, the Role Statement for NEXCO and some further points about electing national leaders and selecting delegates to the World Assembly (points (d) and (e) in GN35.) were presented to the 2000 National Assembly and approved as the National Statutes.

Prior to 2000, Kay Hooper was also asked by the NEXCO to gather into a Working Paper information from each State about their current practices. This was presented to the National Assembly in 2000 but went no further. At the 2004 National Assembly, it was agreed that a Working Party begin to work on the further development of our National Statutes. Over the years, other things have taken precedence and little work was done on this. In 2011 Nick Galante, Chris Hogan and Kay Hooper were asked by NEXCO to review our current documents and make a recommendation about National Statutes that might address the requirements of GN35. With input from the Regional EXCOs, this Working Party prepared an initial draft. NEXCO agreed that this draft should be presented to the National Assembly in 2012 for their approval.

At the National Assembly 2012 it was unanimously agreed that “NEXCO, with its working party, will complete the updating of the Statutes.”

NEXCO invited each Regional EXCO to discuss this document and recommend any changes they wished to make. A working party of the Chairperson of each Regional Community and the Vice President of NEXCO has met on a number of occasions and has agreed on the following document which they present to NEXCO for their approval.

The accompanying National Statutes for CLC Australia were accepted and approved by CLC NEXCO at the meeting of the NEXCO and the Chairpersons of each Regional EXCO on 19th October 2014 and will be confirmed at the National Assembly in July 2016 and will then be presented to the World EXCO of CLC.

These Statutes replace those which were approved at the 2000 CLC National Assembly.
